Instructions: How to file a Claim against the Estate

1. Who can file a claim: Generally, you must reasonably believe that the person who died owes you money.
2. When a claim must be filed: You are not required to file a claim against the estate if the personal representative has paid you or is making arrangements with you to pay what is owed from the decedent's property. But here is what the law currently provides as to creditors:
 - All persons unknown to the personal representative, having claims against the estate are required to present their claims within four months after the date of the first publication of the notice to creditors or the claims will be forever barred.
 - All persons known to the personal representative, having claims against the estate are required to present their claims within four months after receipt of the notice to creditors by mail or the claims will be forever barred.
 - Claims must be presented by delivering or mailing a written statement of the claim to the personal representative at his or her address; you do not need to file the claim in court, unless you want to.
3. How to file a claim against the estate with the court: If you are a person to whom the estate owes money, and you want to file the claim with the court, complete a claim against the estate form, which is included in this packet. Instructions: How to file an objection to Estate Administration

1. Who can file an objection: Generally, you must have some valid interest in the case to be allowed to file an objection to some part of an informal probate of an estate. If you received copies of the papers relating to the probate from the personal representative or his/her attorney, you will probably be allowed to file the objection.
2. When an objection must be filed: File the objection immediately after you get the document or notice that you are objecting to.
3. What to say in the objection: Tell the court as simply as you can what you object to, and why. Write neatly, and be sure you give enough detail about what your points are.
4. Where to file and pay fee: To confirm the filing fee, go online to the clerk of superior court webpage.
File the original with the Probate Registrar, at the address listed below. Then, mail copies to everyone listed in number 6 below.
5. Ask for a formal hearing: If you file the objection, you must also call or go to court to arrange for a formal hearing to be scheduled, and then you must give everyone who is interested in the matter notice about the hearing date, time, and place.
6. Who gets copies of the objection and the Hearing notice: Mail or hand-deliver a copy of the objection and hearing notice at least to the personal representative or his/her attorney. You should also mail or hand-deliver copies to everyone else to whom the personal representative gave notice of the court matter. Ask the personal representative for the names and address of these people, or go to the Clerk of Superior Court's office and look at the copy of the Proof of Notice filed by the personal representative that will have all the information.
